

I am a professional farrier in my 8th year of business. I was trained by the Riding Center School of Horseshoeing in Freeburg, IL, where I started a 4 year apprenticeship under head farrier Rodger Davis before working with several other farriers around the country. As a student (and eventually an instructor) in that program, I learned the principals of therapeutic, natural (common sense) hoof care.

With Nature's Way, you can expect a unique, interactive, and high-tech experience to keep you informed about your horse's hoof health. With GPS navigation to all client locations, a modern farrier workshop built inside a mobile shoeing trailer, credit card processing, and a computerized client-horse database software program operating off an in-vehicle mounted PC, you can guarantee well-organized, professional, and on time appointment.
